T-Anchor Re-Union Brings Pioneer Tales

Though inclement weather and muddy roads cut down the attendance of the Eleventh Annual Re-union of the T-Anchor Cow Punchers and their families, there were a large number present to talk over old time at Wragge Park Thursday.

A basket lunch took place of the customary barbecue and several hundred baskets were unpacked at the noon hour and served with coffee.

Judge L. Gough of Amarillo was master of ceremonies for the afternoon program and spoke to the group of happenings of 50 years ago. Music for square dances were furnished by Mrs. Gertrude Ezell and Hugh Roden of Amarillo. Dr. Roy Snodgrass of Amarillo also told of pioneer days in Texas.

John Arnot of Amarillo was re-elected president of the T-Anchor Cowpunchers' Association for another year and Miss Laura V. Hamner, also of Amarillo was re-elected secretary. The executive committee is composed of Jim Christian of Claude, Billy Jarrett of Dalhart and Cecil Walker of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harter and children returned Saturday from a visit to Big Spring and El Paso.

Canyon May Be On Air Route

Canyon may be listed on an air route. A new air transportation line is being proposed from Amarillo to Fort Worth and Dallas, by the way of Lubbock with a stop-over at Canyon.

The Chamber of Commerce has received word from a representative of the company which proposes to furnish passenger and express service, stating that he will be here at an early date to confer with business men relative to the establishment of a landing field at Canyon.

The company proposes a 5 to 7 hour schedule to Dallas with the prices for passenger service only 10 per cent higher than regular rail or highway transportation fares.

S. V. Wirt Is Temporary Custodian For Park

An unusually large crowd of visitors registered at the Palo Duro Free Park Sunday afternoon. S. V. Wirt has been named temporary custodian of the park succeeding Ray V. Davis until a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Directors at which time the matter will be brought up for discussion.

The park will be kept open it was announced at the Chamber of Commerce office this week. "Many have assumed that with the departure of Mr. Davis, the Park will be closed," Fred E. Wortham, secretary, said.

"The Palo Duro Park was designed for a purpose and it will be kept open to that end. The vision in the minds of those active in the opening of the park to show to Texas and the world the real beauties of the Palo Duro Canyon and thus arouse an interest in and a demand for a state park system in Texas."

Buildings On W. T. Campus Are Being Repaired

The college buildings and campus are undergoing a number of minor changes and repairs during the brief vacation.

The two original wells which were housed just east of the Main Building have been abandoned, the water supply from the deeper wells being of much better quality and much more abundant. The old well house is being made into a work room, and a part of it may be made into a band room. This, if done, will enable the band to meet for night rehearsals without the necessity of opening the Main Building.

The piping fence which surrounds the campus is being painted with aluminum paint.

A large amount of shelving is being placed in the library. A few hundred dollars is being spent in repairs for Randall Hall and both dormitories and all the other buildings are being thoroughly cleaned.

Everything will be in the best condition possible for the opening of college on September 21.

P. L. Haynes And Family To Move To Tennessee

P. L. Haynes, manager of the Foxworth Galbraith Lumber Company yard here, has submitted his resignation to the company and he and his family will leave Canyon next week.

Mr. Haynes will make his home in Winchester, Tennessee, where he will take over the management of his father's lumber business consisting of lumber mills and yards throughout Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes and family have been residents of Canyon for the past year and a half and it is with sincere regret that their many friends here see them leave.

Mrs. Ted Sams of Chattanooga, Tennessee, visited in Canyon last Friday. Mrs. Sams will be remembered as Miss Virginia Griggs. She attended college here for two years.

Do your shopping in Canyon.

C. A. MURRAY TO HEAD W. T. MATH DEPT.

Miss Edna Graham Will Be Other Member Of Department

L. G. ALLEN RETIRES

Mathematics Majors Have Made Exceptional Records In Life Work.

Professor C. A. Murray who was away from Canyon from June 1931 to the beginning of the summer session this year will become head of the Mathematics department with the opening of the regular session of the College on September 21.

Mr. Murray received his Masters degree from the University of Texas several years ago and since that time has spent one and two thirds years working toward his doctorate. In the years that he has been a member of the mathematics department of the college here he has won a large number of friends among the students who admire his staunch scholarship and the systematic attitude which he maintains toward his students. Besides his work in the classroom he has been associated with students in the work of the church and in their recreational activities.

Miss Edna Graham, who will be the other member of the mathematics department, is known all over Texas for the excellence of the methods courses which she has given to teachers of both elementary school and high school mathematics.

Professor L. G. Allen, who has been head of the mathematics department since the organization of the college in 1910, has retired from the responsibilities of that position.

Besides being head of the mathematics department, Mr. Allen was until 1927 dean of the college and it was under his direction that many of the present high standards of the institution were established. A large number of majors in Mr. Allen's department have made exceptional records after leaving Canyon and attribute much of their success to the thorough work which has been demanded in the classes of Mr. Allen and Miss Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Guinn and Mrs. Ike McLendon of Hereford visited in the parental T. F. Reid home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hooker left Sunday for Quail where they will teach in the schools for the coming season.

Fellowship Is Program Theme of Rotary Club

Fellowship was the theme of the program for the Rotary Club, Tuesday noon. Harry Brown, chairman of the Fellowship committee was in charge.

As a novelty stunt all Rotarians were required to tell the place of their birth and their boyhood nicknames.

Doug Shirley made a brief talk defining the various forms of Fellowship. He was followed by a discussion of Fellowship given by Joe Hill.

The wider Fellowship, the more constructive and wholesome a man's life will be, he declared. An optimist is always a good fellow and welcomed by all. This is because he is always busy extending fellowship to those around him.

The Rotary Club has a splendid opportunity to carry fellowship not only to all members but extend into the life of the community. The development of fellowship in our town means that our population will soon make this a friendly city, said Mr. Hill.

Visiting Rotarians present Tuesday were: W. S. Norman, I. Tolzain, R. R. Swindell, and Jack Allen of Amarillo; Bill Smith, Lubbock.

Large Number Attend Annual Picnic Friday

Approximately 250 people attended the annual picnic of the Randall County Dairyman's Association held on the J. P. Upchurch farm in the Palo Duro Canyon on Friday, Sept. 2.

The fourth annual affair of the dairymen was in the form of a basket dinner prepared for the dairymen, their families and invited guests. Previous picnics have been featured with a big barbecue.

A feature of the entertainment was a trained dog novelty act presented by the Harley Sadler Shows, a courtesy of Harley Sadler, a special guest of the occasion.

Two baseball games were played during the day between the men and boys.

A large quantity of grapes as a special treat for the kiddies was the gift of Mrs. T. C. Thompson.

C. C. RADIO ENTERTAINERS.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huber, giving solo and duet selections and Miss Lila Beth Burroughs, pianist, were the entertainers on the weekly Chamber of Commerce Radio Program from WDAG Tuesday evening.

BROTHER DIES.

Mrs. W. S. Myers was called to Berger last week to be at the bedside of her brother, W. J. Cook, who died Thursday. Mr. Cook was well known in Canyon having visited here several times.

INSTITUTE IS ONE OF BEST EVER HELD

Marvin Jones Speaks To Teachers On Friday

TALKS ARE TIMELY

Many Informal Social Affairs Honoring Teachers Are Features of Meet.

An attendance larger than had been anticipated was an outstanding feature of the Panhandle-Plains Counties Teachers Institute which closed Saturday at noon. Professor F. E. Savage was in charge of the Institute which was participated in by eleven counties and a large number of independent school districts.

Five general sessions were held, these being attended by all of the 700 teachers who were registered and by approximately 250 visitors both from Canyon and surrounding towns.

Josh Lee, with his ever-ready flow of humor delighted the teachers with two characteristic lectures on Thursday, the opening day.

Congressman Marvin Jones was the outstanding speaker of the program on Friday. He discussed some of the problems of democracy and reminded his hearers that the democracy which exists in the United States today is the growth of several hundred years of experience, and that the democracy of the future will be a finer type than that of today, provided the apathy of the average citizen does not allow abuses to develop which will be destructive to all democracy.

The speaker then pointed out that the quality and safety of a democratic form of government lie in the character and interest of the common people. "Destroy," he said, "the character of the people and the capitol at Washington with all its beauty and dignity will become only empty trappings."

In closing Congressman Jones emphasized that the public school should be the place where the interest in local and national affairs is fostered and fed and where correct information may be found by the people. "Teachers," he said, "must be the leaders."

Representing the common interests of teachers and parents, Mrs. J. E. Griggs, of Amarillo, president of the Eighth District Congress of Parents and Teachers, outlined to the teachers some of the advantages to the children of a thriving Parent-Teacher association. She told her hearers that "A parent (Continued on last page)

Tuesday Is Canyon Day At Fair

Tuesday, September 20, has been designated as Canyon and Randall County Day at the Tri-State Fair.

Preparations are being made by the Chamber of Commerce to send a large delegation to the Fair on that date. Supt. Irby Carruth will be requested to declare at least a part of that date as a holiday for the school children.

Merchants, who can reasonably do so, will be asked to allow their clerks a part holiday in order to swell the crowd for Canyon Day. Badges will be printed and every person from Canyon and Randall county will be requested to wear a badge to the fair.

MUSEUM IS UNDER WAY THIS WEEK

Building To Be Finished In Four or Five Months

SIMPLE IN DESIGN

T-Anchor Cowboys Tell of Round-Ups Held on Museum Building Site.

With as little ceremony as marked the beginnings of the first dug-out homes on the Plains, excavation was begun last Thursday on the basement of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum building. Professor L. F. Sheffy, J. Evetts Haley, Dean R. P. Jarrett and a few others watched the placing of the stakes which marked the dimensions of the area to be excavated and work began.

Today the excavation is complete and the tool house is ready for occupancy. The contractor, Frank Little, of Amarillo, says that with very favorable weather the building can be ready for use within four and one half or five months.

The Museum will be 150 feet long and 50 feet wide, with Pioneer Hall, the central room, measuring 100 by 45 feet, inside dimensions.

The building is to be constructed of Texas Stone. The Board of directors debated between Indiana Limestone and Texas Limestone, but investigation proved that the Texas product has all the durability of the out of state stone and could be secured for a much lower figure. This stone is a light cream color and weathers to a soft, warm tan.

The building is simple in design, in keeping with its use, and so planned with the idea of getting the greatest amount of space for the money which was available. A number of cattle brands, indigenous to the region, and simple decorations to break the severity of the building are provided for.

This building project will furnish work for a number of men during the coming months.

No one has been more interested in the beginning of the museum than the T-Anchor boys who happened to be meeting in Canyon the day work began.

Here Judge L. Gough recalled that fifty years ago on the same day a great round-up of T-Anchor cattle was held on the very ground on which the new building will stand.

Another visitor recalled that twenty-two years ago, L. G. Allen and other members of the original faculty of the college arrived (Continued on last page)

Eagles Begin Training For Football Sat.

Training season for the Canyon High school Eagles opened Saturday with Coach A. T. Barksdale in charge, assisted by Cleveland Jones, assistant coach.

More than 50 candidates are out this season, furnishing plenty of material, which, though light, is fast and spirited. More interest is being shown, say the coaches, than is ordinarily shown in high school football and the boys are anxious to get into the work of the season.

The initial game will be played Friday, September 30, against Borger here. This is later than the first game is usually played and should give the team ample time to get into condition. All high schools are required to play their games later this season than heretofore.

The remainder of the games, according to the present schedule is as follows:

October 7, Silverton at Silverton.
October 14, Tulla at Tulla.
October 21, Claude at Claude.
October 28, Happy at Canyon.
November 4, Hereford at Canyon.
The games for the remainder of the season have not been announced as yet.

Haskell Lasater Is Transferred To Amarillo

Haskell Lasater, who has been checker at the local M. System store since February of this year, has been transferred to one of the Amarillo stores. He and Mrs. Lasater left Monday for Amarillo.

C. O. Cooper, a resident of Canyon for the past three years, will fill the vacancy in the local store. The many friends that Mr. and Mrs. Lasater have made in their short stay in Canyon regret to see them move.

Rural Schools Open On Monday, Sept. 5

Several Districts Have Consolidated or This Year

The twenty rural schools in Randall County opened Monday, September 5th, with 24 teachers and an approximate enrollment of 450 students. Several of the schools have consolidated this year so that money may be saved the various districts and also, because of the fact that some districts had too few students to merit the maintenance of a separate school building and the necessary teachers.

The rural schools and their faculties as they are to run this year are announced as follows:

Dist. 1 (Conley), Miss Bessie Birdwell.
Dist. 3 (Hudson) has consolidated with Dist. 8 (Jowell) and will be taught by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dodson.
Dist. 4 (Ralph), Mrs. Verl Iversen.
Dist. 5 (Highland), Miss Mary Watson.
Dist. 6 (Trigg), Miss Pauline Till.
Dist. 8 (Jowell), Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dodson.
Dist. 9 (Sunny Hill), Mr. and Mrs. Rex Roby.
Dist. 10. The two schools in this district, Fairview and Plains Center have been consolidated and will be taught by Mrs. John Evans and Miss Addie Allred.

Dist. 11 (Umbarger), Sister Margaret O'Reilly and Sister Mabel La Perche.

Dist. 12 (Burch), Miss Ellen Lewis.

Dist. 13 (Zita), Miss Birda Ann Hastings.

Dist. 16 (Johnson), Keith Donnell.

Dist. 17 (Garrison), L. A. Horn.

Dist. 19 (Wilson), Miss Claudia Neelley.

Dist. 20 (Stone), Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Wilmoth.

Dist. 22 (Lakeside), Mrs. Ed Weeks.

Dist. 23 (Rusk) has combined with Dist. 9 (Sunny Hill) and all pupils will attend the Sunny Hill school.

Dist. 24 (Tierra Blanca), Miss Ethleen Wofford.

Dist. 25 (Palo Duro), Cass Jennings, Mrs. Reynolds.

Dist. 26 (Pierce), Miss Lena Bryant.

The rural schools are all in a position to run until the first of the year and several are assured a full 9 months' term, according to a statement made this week by County Judge S. B. Orton. However, Mr. Orton added, if taxes are paid promptly, all of the schools may be able to run for nine months.

THE THIRD CALLED SESSION

By Clyde W. Warwick
Representative, 123rd District
The "Lame Duck" Session of the Legislature is under way.

While the people of Texas have been condemning Lame Duck Sessions of Congress for years, they little realized that they would see such a session of their own Legislature called in this good 1932.

The word "good" may be questioned. In fact, it is very greatly questioned by those who happened to be holding office this year and sought re-election. It was a good year for the outs who were seeking to get in but mighty poor for the ins who were seeking to stay.

This session, the Third Called Session of the 42nd Legislature, may likewise be called an "alibi" session. Of the 150 members, 86 will not return. This is by far the largest turnover that Texas has ever had in legislative circles. There will be exciting times ahead when the 43rd Legislature convenes in January and the 64 old members attempt to take charge of the great number of new members and pass constructive legislation.

Unprecedented will be the number of young men for the coming session. It is stated that practically one-half or maybe more of the new members will be in their early twenties. Perhaps this is an exaggeration as no one has yet had an opportunity to compile statistics as to the personnel of the next session, but the fact remains that most of the old gray heads who were defeated went down before youth.

It seems that about the same argument for retirement of the present membership was made all over the State. Whether it was in east Texas or west Texas, south Texas, or north Texas, or even central Texas, the charges against the present Legislature seem to be about the same. The poor negro shine boy, an institution in the House for many years standing, was vigorously condemned all over the State. Imagine his surprise when told by members from every section that he, the negro porter, was a vital issue in the respective districts, but that never-the-less proved to be the case.

Another charge that went over the State was the number of newspapers, a total of three, which has been paid for by the State for many, many years' sessions, but this year it had a most telling effect upon the voters. Another charge which was made in every section was the number of times each member was recorded to be absent. The voters little understood that a member might be present and still be counted absent if he happened to be away from his desk and not voting when the roll was called. The voting machine considers only those who push the button, regardless of what the member may happen to be doing at that particular moment.

It is suspected that some agency in Austin was largely responsible for having made a check on the individual members and furnished at so much per head this immaterial information to the opponents of the present membership of the legislature. The same charge would not likely have been made all over the State when great issues were involved and never discussed.

The Governor's message was clear cut in the demand for quick action and immediate adjournment, but a majority of the House thinks different. Twenty-seven bills were introduced the first two days upon various subjects—some within the call of the Governor, and many upon subjects not included in the call. A complete investigation of the Highway Department, which would take months to complete, is proposed. A half dozen methods of diverting the gasoline tax for the benefit of the counties having highway bonds have been presented. To get all of these opinions together and into a workable bill is going to take time.

In addition to that the Senate is clamoring for the Governor to submit the question of appropriations with the view of trimming all State salaries. Be it remembered that the House passed such a reduction bill last year which was killed by the Senate.

The Senate also made a gesture toward great economy by passing a resolution to work for nothing during this session. The House retaliated by passing a resolution setting their own salary and allowing the Senate to work for nothing if they so choose. Thus the readers will see that the usual buck-passing procedure is underway.

The all-absorbing question of who will be Governor commands much attention while it is certain that court proceedings will be instigated before the final decision is made. Interest has not lagged in legislative circles and it would not be surprising to see another investigation started along the charges made of illegal voting in the State. Those who were most hopeful of winding up the business of this session in time for the State convention at Lubbock on September 13, have given up all hopes and plans are now being made for a large legislative gathering at Lubbock when the balance of ballots is fought seeking to determine who the standard bearer of Democracy shall be in the Governor's race.

As usual the first week has largely been devoted to long-winded resolutions which mean nothing and to the introductions of bills. The second week will see many of these bills whipped into shape and probably passed by the time this reaches the readers. The necessity of getting some relief to the taxpayers of the bonded counties is a most impelling necessity which will inspire the Legislature and spur them on to action.

The House shows that Texas is still dry in voting down the resolution by a vote of 71 to 43. It would call upon Congress to submit the repeal of the 18th amendment. It is understood that the next House will be of a more moist complexion, but still securely in the prohibition ranks.

DO YOUR PART

Beginning with the 1932 Fire Prevention Week, let us determine to cut the American fire waste, which runs about $500,000,000 a year, in half.

That is the suggestion in an article in Safeguarding America Against Fire. The American people could take upon themselves no finer project. In these days of distress, a half billion dollar waste is unthinkable, and even that seems a small matter in the light of the fact that fire destroys 10,000 lives annually.

This year Fire Prevention Week will be observed from October 9 to 15. It will open with proclamations from the President of the United States and from governors of states, mayors of cities and other officials. Chambers of Commerce, fire departments, trade associations and state fire prevention groups will give every effort to instructing the public in fire hazards and their elimination. Each of us will have the chance to learn, pleasantly and painlessly! If we fail, we have shirked a duty to the community.

Every fire reaches into the pocketbook—threatens every piece of property in the community—endangers every life. It is a tragic, an unnecessary waste. It is only made possible by thoughtlessness, laziness and ignorance. It can be stamped out by thought and care. Do your part!

Federal Crop Report System Requires Co-operation of Farmers

THE United States' method of feeling its own agricultural pulse—the federal crop report system—has been of immeasurable aid to the nation's farmers, but at the same time it owes the rural folk a great debt. For, without their co-operation, the statistics which govern the markets and the flow of agricultural trade would be far from accurate.

The monthly statistics on acreage planted and prospective yields represent the observations and best judgment of over a quarter of a million Americans, mostly "dirt" farmers trained in local crop observation.

They are the volunteer members of the largest statistical organization in the world—the Department of Agriculture. From the figures which these men submit, the Department's Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates, by a process of enumeration, estimation and judgment, issue percentages of normal, aggregate acreage, etc., together with bold estimates of what may be expected at the season's end in bushels, bales or heads of livestock, crop by crop.

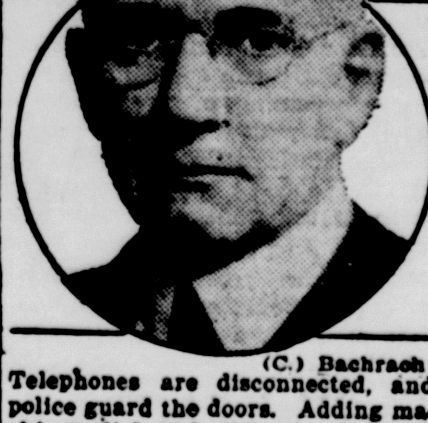

THE process through which federal crop reports are evolved is somewhat like this:

Once a month during the critical growing season, the volunteer farmer-reporters submit their estimates. In state headquarters and in the national headquarters at Washington, the reports are assembled, digested, checked and tested by cross methods, then interpreted.

In carrying out this work, the Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates employs a small staff of experienced statisticians and a large force of statistical clerks. They have one or more statisticians in each state, to travel about obtaining information from farmers, commercial houses, mills, elevators, railroads and marketing associations. Each of these statisticians enlists the voluntary services of between 250 and 3000 crop correspondents, designated as "aids." These aids may be farmers, local merchants and dealers, who report on prices for farm equipment and supplies, or livestock, mill and elevator reporters.

In Washington crop report mail is kept under lock and key by a personal representative of the secretary of agriculture until the morning of crop report day, when it is turned over to the Crop Reporting Board. The work of the board is to compare and study the reports, and issue individual estimates which are checked against each other.

It is on the morning that the board is in session that color punctuates the routine of statistical work. It is then that great precautions must be taken to prevent leaks of the board's estimate to the outside for the benefit of speculators. The board and its staff arrive early and are locked in their quarters. Windows are barred and blinded.

(C.) Bachrach
Telephones are disconnected, and police guard the doors. Adding machines click and mimeograph equipment whirs. At a specified hour, the sheets are released to newspaper correspondents, and the results are telegraphed in code to all parts of the country.

When published, they are read eagerly everywhere. By them railroads plan their car supply, banks revise their credit schedules, manufacturers are guided in their production or sales schedules, national magazines obtain indications of their advertising expectations, traders in agricultural products determine when to buy or when to sell. And the individual farmer, at home, studies them for hints on when to send produce to market, or what to plant and breed next year.

financial institutions are all right; the money supply is ample for normal conditions and there is really no cause for alarm. A few good people will be caught, to be sure, but on the whole the only wrecks will be those who may well be termed gamblers on futures—men who stayed in the game of chance just a little too long.

THE PRESENT MONEY TIGHTNESS

Much has been said and a great deal written about the causes for the present money tightness. Leaders in finance on this as well as the other side of the "great pond" have had their say. It has been attributed to unfavorable legislation, Federal and State; conflicts between organized labor and capital, to poor crops, to overbuying and to speculation.

In former issues The News has called attention to the fact that the Nation's money supply had increased wonderfully since 1900, having almost doubled in per capita circulation, and that this within itself would bring a speculation era for which, as sure as fate, the day of reckoning would come. The longs on all kind of property, real and personal, are rushing to cover in order to save their margins and there is not enough "dough" to go a round. Everybody has been buying, everybody has been improving, everybody has been incorporating and now pay-day comes for everybody and the cash won't expand to meet the occasion. The country is all right; our

It must be remembered that the earnings of railroads cannot be compared to those of other businesses, inasmuch as during years of prosperity stringent regulation prevents them from making even as much as six per cent on their investment.

We are all interested in the railroads, whether we know it or not. They occupy a position of the first importance in the industrial scheme and their prosperity is directly related to the prosperity, or lack of it, of banks, insurance companies and a multitude of manufacturing and producing industries. What happens to the railroads will, directly or indirectly, affect us all.

THE UNEMPLOYED

The public is always the loser when competition is unfair.

This modern industrial axiom is especially applicable in the case of the railroads. Eighty-five per cent of the nation's freight is carried by them—and no other agency could carry it as cheaply and as efficiently. Yet inequitable regulated land and water competition has forced railroad retrenchment, resulting in the passing of dividends by many lines, and contributing further to unemployment.

In the single state of New Jersey there are 16,000 fewer residents in railroad employ than there were four years ago, and railroad payrolls to residents of the state have been reduced $27,000,000 annually.

Visiting Couple
Are Wed Here
Saturday Nite

The wedding of Miss Ivy Katherine Tanner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Tanner of Terrell, Texas, to Mr. Edward F. Pilley of Floydada, was solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. K. E. Fries, 1100 Fourth Avenue, at 6:30 Saturday evening. Rev. C. E. Jameson, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated, using the single ring ceremony.

The wedding was a very quiet affair, but impressive. Only a few relatives and close friends of the couple were in attendance.

The couple entered the living room as Mrs. Frieze played Lohengrin's wedding march. During the ceremony Mrs. Frieze softly played "At Dawning" and later accompanied Miss Nell Parnby of Strawn who sang "I Love You Truly."

Tall baskets of flowers, pots of fern, and lighted tapers made an attractive setting in a color scheme of orchid and yellow.

The bride chose as her wedding dress, an attractive model in brown shirred crepe with trimmings of angel skin lace and with accessories to match. She carried an arm bouquet of Pernet roses. Mrs. Frieze was becomingly dressed in black satin and Miss Parnby wore a lovely frock of black lace.

Mrs. Pilley, who for the past two years has been a member of the faculty of the Lubbock Public schools, was educated in the Terrell schools and the Texas State College for Women at Denton. Mr. Pilley is the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Edward Pilley, who for many years were missionaries in China. He is a civil engineer, having received his degree in 1930 from the Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Virginia.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Floydada where they will reside at 612 Wall Street.

Black and White Are Evening Favorites

MATERIAL AND CUT WILL CARRY SOME FROCKS, WHILE OTHERS WILL USE
GAY TRIMMINGS FOR ADORNMENT

BY HARRIET

THE fashion world has made up its mind that people should dress up for evening. While the sun is shining, they may dress as practically as they please, but when the stars shine out, a much more glamorous silhouette throws its shadow against the night.

Black, which is always in favor because of the subtle air of sophistication and mystery it holds, when worn smartly, is highly favored. If you can't wear it with ease and assurance, don't try it. It will do everything to help you—or everything to hurt you.

White, that has been a summer favorite, is going to be just as desirable when the snow is flying.

Some white frocks will remain unadorned, letting the material and cut of the frock get it by. Others will use gold and silver trimming. Still others have a penchant for a gay, bright color. Vermilion and rust are going to add striking notes to evening affairs, also.

Decolletages are interesting, too. One frock features a double-crossed decolletage, quite demure in the front, which assumes a draped effect across the shoulders, and ties at the waist in the back.

OTHER evening frocks have adopted distinctly modest poses and use rounded necks and short puffed sleeves, or have a cape effect at the shoulders. This pattern is extremely youthful. Unless you are sure that you will be able to manage it, the slightly more sophisticated style may give you a higher rating on the evening style card.

Wrap-around effects are another new feature of evening frocks.

One white satin evening dress, which is as luminous as a pearl necklace, has a low V-shaped decolletage, which extends to the waistline. The satin molds the body, like a shimmering sheath. A sash twisted with velvet loops in the center of the back. Evening sandals are worn with the gown. Dinner frocks that cover up their evening tricks with jackets during the afternoon are practical. Every wardrobe should contain at least one such ensemble. It should be cool, dark, sheer and tailored. One such frock, made of thin black material, has a low cut V-neckline, and capelet sleeves that are slit the length of the shoulders. A layer bow of white mouseline de sole adds a crisp, fresh touch. The jacket makes the gown appropriate for tea or a matinee. When it comes off, you are ready for the more gala events of the evening.

A small white evening hat and white gloves are worn with the dress.

Roosevelt Stars as Campaigner

Few presidential races of recent years have seen a more energetic campaigner than Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, the Democratic nominee, who mapped out a 23-day 8000-mile tour to the Pacific coast and return in quest of votes. Here is a typical Roosevelt campaign picture, taken recently at Sea Girt, N. J., where he delivered one of his major eastern speeches. Roosevelt, seated in his auto, is shown shaking hands with an admirer.

Contract Feeding of Livestock Profitable

From Bulletin 274, University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

There is nothing particularly new about contract feeding. In reality it is nothing more than an advanced form of trade or barter, the like of which our ancestors practiced for hundreds of years before there was such a thing as money, and which they have practiced during every period of financial stress ever since. Just when farmers began trading eggs for groceries is not recorded, but the practice has for years been so common that it stimulates no particular thought.

In a like manner, stockmen of the older school will recall that during the depressions of the 70s and 80s the practice of trading a portion of their herd for feed enough to carry the remainder through the winter was common. From this stage to that of virtually trading a portion of a herd of their cattle for enough corn or alfalfa to fatten the remainder of the herd is only a short step, and that, in its final analysis, is what contract feeding really is.

In the formation of a contract for the share feeding of the one's feed to the other's livestock, the feeder and grower must not forget that they are about to enter into a mutual agreement. The peculiar nature of this agreement makes its fairness to each of them paramount to all other considerations. Any contract that favors the one at the expense of the other is certain, in the long run, to prove unsatisfactory. This is true because as soon as one of the participants sees that he is paying for the other's profit he immediately becomes dissatisfied, and, therefore, lax or vindictive in the fulfillment of his obligations, and the situation results in a direct loss to both. This was demonstrated in a number of cases in the fall of 1931 where Wyoming-grown lambs were contracted to feeders in the North Platte Valley, Eastern Colorado, and Western Kansas. The feeders finding themselves suffering severe losses to the benefit of the grower, fed the livestock in such an unsatisfactory manner that the weight of the lambs after feeding was not as great as it was before the feeding period began, and heavy losses were incurred by both parties. Likewise, growers have been led into bad bargains. Charges of misrepresentation have been made, and requests for excessive fattening or early sale and other disagreements resulted. This, in the end, so disgusted both parties with the practice that neither would try it again.

Several types of available contracts may be varied to fit specific feed, farm or financial conditions. These make it possible for either party to bear the burden of falling prices and excessive death losses, or for risks to be divided equally. It is evident that where the burden of risks is borne solely by one party, he is entitled to receive all the benefits which might accrue from rising prices, good feeding, or less-than-normal death losses. For either party to assume all the risks and still divide the profits is obviously so unfair as to need no discussion, yet this is exactly what many contracts now in use call upon one of the parties to do. The results in such cases have been so disastrous that even the supposed beneficiary has suffered. On the other hand, much more numerous are the equitable contracts, between responsible parties, which have been carried out to the mutual satisfaction of both.

Both the feeder and the grower should be financially able to carry out their respective portions of the contract, and both should seek to enter into the agreement in good faith. To determine the financial standing of a prospective contractor is, in these days of credit associations, a simple matter; but for a man in a position to feed to locate a grower who can supply desirable livestock is quite another problem, even though both may be legion.

Contract feeding should not be engaged in by the uninformed. To employ it properly, the grower must have some knowledge of the feeder's costs and expenses, and the feeder, in turn, must be able to estimate accurately the value of the grower's livestock. Beyond this, and more important, is the fact that both feeder and grower must acquaint themselves intimately with their own risks, costs and requirements in the fulfillment of the contract they are about to enter.

Of prime importance are such factors as shrink, transportation, marketing cost, overhead expenses, and the feed cost of gains to be produced. While knowledge of these factors is highly important in any feeding operation, it becomes doubly so in contract feeding if the proceeds are to be divided in accordance with the risks involved. Without some knowledge of these things, no farmer should attempt to feed, much less to contract feed. With them, he may enter into a contract in confidence and safety.

When market fluctuations are slight, feed prices stable, credit easy, and financial risks, therefore, at a minimum, contract feeding has its fewest advantages. When the opposite is true, its advantages increase. It is doubtful whether there ever has been a time when risks were so slight that it would not have been desirable to have further reduced them through the use of equitable contracts.

Even the most casual observer knows that livestock cannot undergo excitement, lack of feed, and other hardships incident to transportation without some shrink. On all range livestock fattened for market, this loss in weight, or shrink, must be endured twice—once when the animals are shipped from range to feed-lot, and again when they are shipped from feed-lot to market. It is important to remember these two shrinks when the making of a contract is contemplated.

Where a feeder contracts to receive his compensation for the fattening of livestock wholly on a basis of the gain produced, shrink becomes a tremendously important factor, and it should either be eliminated from consideration by the use of in-and-out weights at the feedlot, or a sufficient amount should be added to the cost of feedlot gain to offset its effect. Where feeding is done on the investment or custom plan, this factor will, in most cases, automatically take care of itself.

The following figures on shrinkage of cattle in transit are from a bulletin of the U. S. Department of Agriculture:

Shrink, Percentage	Hours in transit	of Total Weight
1 to 24	2.05 to 3.91
24 to 36	3.46 to 6.37
36 to 72	3.88 to 5.40
Over 72	3.96 to 7.00

The effect of shrink on the cost of feedlot gains on cattle is shown by the following table:

	2-Year- Olds	Year- lings	Calves
Range weight	900	600	400
Inbound shrink	45	30	22
Feed lot gain	306	353	442
Outbound shrink	40	33	24
Market weight	1,121	980	796
Credit gain	221	290	396
Increased Feed

Common practice is to allow a shrink of 3 percent on weights of lambs or cattle weighed direct off pasture where this figure, however, is much disputed. A 12-hour stand without feed and water is more generally used and is believed by many to be more satisfactory. Two or 3 percent is often added to livestock weighed off the cars in lieu of a hay and water fill at stockyards. Exact data as to the advisability of these practices are not available.

Experience indicates that a normal death loss on feedlot lambs will be about 3 percent. With calves, about 2 percent is to be expected, while with yearlings and older cattle 1 percent is considered average. If the death loss is assumed by the feeder he must make up the weight lost on account of death by additional gains on the livestock. Because of the small initial weight and the proportionately greater and more efficient gains made by calves, the loss of 2 percent through death does not increase the cost of gain as much as a loss of 1 percent on older cattle. An equitable contract should make provision for this fact as well as for the fact that under unusual conditions much greater losses are possible.

The effect of death losses on the cost of feedlot gains on different classes of cattle are shown by the accompanying table. For example, the feed cost per 100 pounds of gain on a yearling steer, with corn at 35 cents a bushel and alfalfa at $8 a ton, is $5.60. A death loss of 1 percent increases this feed cost per 100 pounds gain 2.59 percent, or 15 cents.

Effect of death loss on cost of gains:

Death Loss Percent	2-year-olds Increased feed cost Percent	Yearlings Increased feed cost Percent	Calves Increased feed cost Percent
1	3.50	2.59	1.38
2	7.34	5.33	2.81
3	11.44	8.26	4.29

Note: Data based on initial weights and gains as follows:

Two-year-olds	Initial wt	Gain
Yearlings	708	353
Calves	376	442

In addition to shrink and death loss, certain overhead costs enter into every contract feeding operation. From the grower's standpoint, these include the interest on the investment he has in his livestock plus any supervisory expenses that may be involved in looking after his interests while the livestock is in the feeder's lots, plus his share of rail and marketing expenses. The feeder's overhead includes interest on feed, labor, upkeep of buildings and equipment, and the like. This will vary according to locality and conditions, but will run somewhere from $1.25 to $1.75 per 100 pounds of gain. Fully one-half of this expense will be for labor.

Emergency Treatment for Snake Bite.

"Let us divide the treatment for rattlesnake bites into two phases: First, emergency treatment or first aid; second, medical care. Every case of rattlesnake bite should be brought to the attention of a physician as soon as possible, so you are concerned primarily with the first phase.

"First of all, discard the idea of using potassium permanganate. Experiments have proved that it is worthless in any strength that one would care to use.

"Keep cool. Rattlesnake bites are painful, but only a small percentage are fatal.

"Apply touriquet at once between wound and heart, tight enough to hinder venous circulation, but not necessarily tight enough to shut off arterial flow. A stout band or strip of rubber is good and can be most quickly applied.

"Open fang puncture by cross cut one-eighth inch deep, with sharp sterile knife. Safety razor blades are easily carried in sterile package. Suck the wound by mouth if necessary. Mouth must be free of wounds or abrasions. It is best to have a suction bulb, or apply suction mechanically as soon as possible, since long-continued suction has been proved efficacious.

"Loosen touriquet every 20 to 30 minutes for 2 or 3 minutes.

"If Antivenin be at hand, administer at once according to directions.

"Keep patient quiet. Give stimulant if necessary, as in case of weak heart action or fainting. Alcohol is not a stimulant. Black coffee, aromatic spirits of ammonia, strychnine are stimulants. Plenty of alcohol will neatly finish what the venom has started.

"As soon as possible get to a physician, who should continue the suction treatment, giving Antivenin if not previously given, and care for the wound to prevent infection.

"Suction removes the venom in bloody serum for hours after bite is inflicted. Antivenin counteracts the venom which has gotten into the blood stream, and will benefit many hours after bite. Be careful not to slash indiscriminately or too deeply in opening for suction and drainage, especially on hand, foot, wrist or ankle, as serious damage to tendons may result.

"Suction should be kept up for 20 minutes out of each hour for 15 hours, or until swelling ceases. Mechanical suction, of course, is necessary for this purpose."—American Hereford Journal.

Increases Dairy Production.

Littlefield.—An increase of 130.2 pounds of butterfat per cow his second year as a dairy herd demonstrator over his first year record is reported by Roy B. McQuatters, Lamb county dairymen cooperating with D. A. Adam, county agent. He attributes this remarkable increase to close culling, made possible by records; to the addition of better cows to the herd; and to his feeding which has centered around good pastures and soy bean hay.

His five cows last year averaged 7,198 pounds of milk which tested 4.9 per cent. Butterfat and skim milk were valued at $471.35, and feed cost was $116.77. Butterfat averaged 18.7 cents per pound for the year, and the feed cost per pound of butterfat figured out 7.7 cents. Pasture was charged at $26.60; 8,060 pounds of roughage was valued at $19.02; and 13,985 pounds of concentrates was listed at $91.15. Mr. McQuatters says the cream check is small but a "life saver in these times."

WHAT OTHER PEOPLE THINK.

American scholarship has learned to make its own adaptations to reality, has proudly founded its own free expression according to its own temper, and has learned fearlessly to interpret the truth in its own way.—Dean Winfred G. Leutner of Western Reserve University.

I shall labor as I have labored to meet the effects of the worldwide storm which has devastated us with trials and suffering equalled in but few periods of our history.—Herbert Hoover, in accepting Republican nomination for the presidency.

If anyone had told me in advance of the British Open that I could shoot 72 holes in 283 strokes, I would have said they were crazy.—Gene Sarazen.

If I say so, myself, my clothes are the latest styles from Paris and New York.—Lilyan Tashman, "best dressed" woman in Hollywood.

Three things are ever silent—thought, destiny and the grave.—Bulwer-Lytton.

For return of equilibrium, we need security. No economic peace is possible without political peace.—Edouard Herriot, premier of France, at Lausanne conference.

According to the papers, Uncle Sam is in business now. Judging by the way the government has been conducted, someone should follow the benevolent old creature about and prevent him from paying cash for riparian rights to the Sahara desert.

Hoover Sees Better Times

This striking closeup shows President Hoover as he addressed business and industrial leaders of the nation in a conference at Washington recently, in which the chief executive asserted that the nation had overcome "the major financial crisis" and predicted a revival of business. He outlined a sixpoint plan which is expected to aid this by extension of more credit that will provide more employment.

Enrollment In Public Schools Is Excellent

Enrollment for the Canyon public schools reached 648 Wednesday and was still growing, according to a statement made by Superintendent Irby Carruth.

Of this number 417 were enrolled in the grades and 231 in the high school. This is an unusually good enrollment, said Mr. Carruth, and will probably be much larger before the first of the year.

The schools have gotten off to a smooth start this year, most of the students enrolled and already started in their class work. It promises to be one of the most outstanding years in the history of the school.

THE COST OF TRANSPORTATION

Unfortunately, transportation of freight commands a price that must be figured in human life as well as money.

300 innocent users of the Texas highways were killed by trucks in 1931. This figure represents the cost in human lives of transporting 386,208 tons of freight.

247 private citizens, employees and trespassers were killed by the railroads in 1931. This figure represents the cost in human lives of transporting 7,773,985 tons of freight, as well as passengers, over Texas railroads.

The ratios command attention. It costs one life to transport 1287 tons of freight by truck; it costs one life to transport 31,474 tons of freight by rail. Had the trucks transported as much freight as the railroads, and had kept their mortality down to the present figure, they would have killed 6040 Texas citizens. In other words, truck transportation, figured in human lives, is more than 24 times as expensive as railroad transportation.

Texas railroads transport freight at a money cost averaging one cent per ton mile. Trucks transport freight at a money cost fluctuating between five and ten cents per ton mile. Had the trucks carried all of Texas freight in 1931, the cost of transportation entering into Texas commodity prices, would have soared from five hundred to one thousand per cent.

These facts, readily corroborated by the records at Austin, indicate that railroads are by far the cheapest and safest form of land transportation. To wreck the railroads, in order to make trucking profitable, would be a case of cutting off the public's nose to spite the railroad's face.

POISON BY MISTAKE.

Almost every day the newspapers give accounts of someone taking poison by mistake. The average person reads the news of the untimely death and if it makes any impression at all, there is a mental note, "How foolish," or something of the sort, and it is dismissed from our mind.

But the same fate awaits most people, if they do not profit by the lesson that such accidents teach. So long as human beings are subject to bodily ills, just so long will they have home remedies at hand, and in the stock of remedies of the majority of households is everything from a spring tonic to bichloride of mercury tablets.

We are all agreed that it is foolish, but look at your own home medicine chest and see if you do not find the same mix-up there.

It is next to impossible to expect people not to keep poisons around the house, but the proper precautions should be taken to prevent useless loss of life.

No bottle containing poison should be kept in a medicine chest, even though it is properly labeled, because every time you place a bottle of poison in a medicine chest, you are flirting with death.

The only sure protection against error is to keep all bottles or boxes filled with poison, securely tied up in a box with heavy string. Then the person trying to take medicine in haste will realize the mistake.

Put your poisons where they are difficult to reach and the difficulty will automatically warn you. This is the only safe way. Any other course is dangerous.

The following is a list of the donors to the museum building fund together with the amount subscribed by each. Subscriptions began to be taken for this fund in 1929. They were completed in 1932, after the Forty-Second Legislature had appropriated $25,000.00 for a library-museum on the campus of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon. It is provided, however, that an equal amount would be raised by private subscription and applied on this building. The contract for this building was let on August 24, 1932.

Fans Will Find Plenty of Room for Argument in the Question of Whether McCarthy's 1932 Baseball Machine Is Better Than Huggins' 1927-28 Model

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THERE'S no law against it. Yet the fans who believed the Yankees of 1927-28 the greatest baseball machine in history will resent any comparison of that group with the pennant-winning model currently piloted by Joe McCarthy.

Going back five years, the Yankees of the late Miller Huggins' era employed Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and Dugan, on the infield; Ruth, Combs and Meusel in the outfield; Collins, Grabowski and Bengough back of the plate, and Pennock, Pipgras, Hoyt, Moore, Ruether and Shocker on the mound.

Hoyt won 22 and lost seven in 1927, a performance equaled by Lefty Gomez ere Sept. 1 of this season. Moore won 19 and lost seven and Shocker won 18 and lost six. These performances should be bettered by Charley Ruffing and George Pipgras of the current team. Pennock won 19 and lost eight, but he'll never do it this season. However, Johnny Allen, the young rookie, may turn the trick, and perhaps better it. Ruether won 13 and lost six in 1927 and Pipgras won 10 and lost three. The remainder of the 1932 Yankee staff won't equal that. As I view it, the first four of the present Yankee staff will beat the first four of five years ago.

GEHRIG batted .373 in 1927, produced more than 40 home runs and won the valuable player award. Lou is a better first baseman today than he was then, although his hitting is approximately 30 points lower, which may or may not be due to the difference in the official ball. He is still one of the greatest at driving in runs.

Lazzeri hit .309 five years ago and, following a disastrous slump last year, is doing almost as well this season. Crosetti and Lary, 1932 shortstops, may be hard pressed to equal Mark Koenig's .285 batting average of 1927. Koenig wasn't a star shortstop, and neither are Frankie and Lyn. In my opinion, Joe Sewell is still a better performer on third and at the plate than Joe Dugan was at the tail-end of his career five years ago.

Of this much, I am sure. Bill Dickey's catching today is far and away superior to that of the 1927 work of Bengough, Grabowski and Collins. Dickey is an efficient handler of pitchers and a powerful slugger on the attack. The edge

AND now the outfield. Babe Ruth, Combs and Meusel vs. Ruth, Combs and Chapman. The Babe has gone back, of course. He hit .356 and 60 homers in 1927. His batting this year is just as good, apparently, but it is shy several home run walllops.

Neither is Combs as capable as he was in 1927, when he led the league in singles, 166; triples, 23, and total hits, 231. Earl batted .356 that year, about 30 points higher than he has done this season.

Meusel was a great money-player,

He could be relied upon in the pinches. His fielding and throwing always was good. But Meusel never was the threat that Ben Chapman is. Ben hits as well as Meusel did, gets almost as many long hits as Bob did, and can run rings around anything Meusel ever did on the baselines. Chapman is a fine fielder, but his throwing is not up to what Meusel's was.

So there they are, the Huggins' of 1927 and the McCarthy clan of 1932. Miller Huggins was a great manager, a fine handler of men and a baseball strategist of first rank. Yet Joe McCarthy knows something about the fine points of managing, a winner, too.

Miner "Dry Cleans" Gold

This miner believes that gold is in the gravel, taken from the old Yuba River bed in California, and so he is using a "dry cleaning" method of separation. The gold-bearing gravel is shoveled into a box, and dry washed with a bellows arrangement, which makes the separation. Pay dirt is then taken to a stream for final clean-up by panning.

It was emphasized that the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society unites in its work the best of the old life and of life of the present day.

teacher association helps the parents to understand the children and helps the parents and teachers to understand each other."

During the conference with teachers, following her discussion, Mrs. Griggs stated that there are very few schools in the Panhandle which do not have Parent Teachers Associations and that most teachers now know how to enter into this type of school and community service.

Dr. J. R. Grant, president of Ouchita College, Arkadelphia, Arkansas, was the only out-of-state speaker on the program. He discussed current educational problems and the emergencies which are being faced by education.

Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the Texas State Teachers Association discussed that organization and its relation to the individual teacher and school.

The groups conferences were successful this year. Miss Ima Kuykendall, primary supervisor of the Fort Worth Public Schools, had charge of the primary section; Dr. A. W. Evans of Texas Technological College directed the high school section and Dr. Grant the intermediate section.

Informal Social Affairs

The Institute really constituted a great homecoming, for nearly all of those in attendance had been students in Canyon or had many friends here. Luncheon, dinner and theater parties were numerous.

Fair Boosters Confer Tuesday With Local Men

Advertising the annual Tri-State Fair at Amarillo, September 19 to 24, a group of Amarillo business men visited here Tuesday in a sound-equipped courtesy car of the Cunningham Floral Company. During their brief stay here the visitors contacted local school and chamber of commerce officials relative to this city organizing a delegation to attend the big exposition.

Mason King, head of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Trade Extension department, and a member of the Tri-State Fair publicity committee, declared that if Canyon sends a delegation to the fair its members will be given an opportunity to broadcast over an Amarillo radio station. He especially urged all musicians and singers to attend the territorial attraction and display their talents over the radio hookup.

With a gigantic galaxy of attractions exceeding those of all previous years, the 1932 fair promises to draw more visitors than ever before. From morning until late at night there will be something going on every minute. No charges will be made to the grounds.

Among the attractions to be assembled for the entertainment of thousands are a rodeo, the Wortham Shows, largest carnival combination in the country, night automobile races, a World War pageant, a theatrical show and a big time college football game.

Cash awards totaling $3,300 will be given to contestants in the World's champion rodeo. Not less than 30 racing cars are expected to be entered in the automobile speed classic.

Entries in the dairy cattle, poultry, swine, agriculture, horticulture, boys and girls and women's farm club work departments, already exceed those of last year, and some of the divisions have been closed to additional entries for lack of space.

Railroad fares to Amarillo will be the lowest in the Panhandle's history during the fair. For the first two days, Monday and Tuesday, September 19 and 20, round-trip tickets will be sold for 60 percent of the one-way charge. Excursion rates will be in effect during the remaining four days. The visitors from Amarillo called especial attention to the great amount of publicity and good-will Canyon would derive from sending an organized group to the fair, and expressed hopes that this community will be represented in a big way.

WHAT OTHER PEOPLE THINK.

As a solution to the war debts problem, Roosevelt's scheme is on a parity with the governor's suggestion that unemployment be met by planting trees.—Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire.

If you want to be happy, be jealous. If I had the power to create a perfect woman, I would surely mix among her virtues a grain of jealousy.—Marlene Dietrich, movie actress.

It (Fascism) rejects pacifism, which implies renunciation of struggle and cravenness in the face of sacrifice. Only war carries all human energies to the height of tension and gives the seal of nobility to peoples that have the courage to confront it.—Benito Mussolini, Italian dictator.

I would sign a statement that I killed Haden Clarke myself if I thought it would help Bill (Lancaster) out of this trouble.—Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, noted woman flyer.

The Lausanne conference (on reparations) is the bright spot of world affairs for the past two years.—Senator William E. Borah.
